

TESTIMONIAL FOR I.C. INTERVENTIONS

Families who have loved ones in need of an intervention are often emotionally and psychologically fatigued. Living with anger, worry and frustration becomes an accepted condition, and this allows the substance-abusing individual to maintain a false sense of reality. In our case, we lost influence with our son and were no longer able to cope with the risks and dangers of such a powerfully negative dynamic and family system. I.C. all but alleviated our growing sense of hopelessness by sharing his own experiences, and encouraged us to take the necessary steps to save our family. His approach was calm, patient, insightful and personal. He helped grow our confidence, and truly partnered with us as we took the difficult and foreign steps of planning treatment, therapy and aftercare. His coaching prior to the intervention, as well as his participation the day of, was nothing short of remarkable. I.C.'s highly empathic style was the key to his credibility with our son and the success of our efforts. It is early in our family's recovery, but it is not an exaggeration to say that I.C. helped save our son's life. I.C. truly approaches the work he does as a calling, and he helped us navigate the way to healing with compassion and caring. We are so grateful to have found I.C. for the intervention and we continue to consult with him on issues that we are confronted with as our family continues on this journey.

Concerned Parents

Chicago